

One bulk decoupling capacitor per IC
One decoupling capacitor per power pin

AVCC is the power for the analog circuitry, and it typically more sensitive to noise
More filtering is preferred, but this can also be omitted and the chip should work.
Ferrite beads act as resistors and dissipate heat at high frequencies, which help act as a low pass filter.

